THE HOME PAPER

SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

Looks to me like the drought situation would be better served if the "power that be," would devote their energies toward finding some efficient rainmakers, rather than figuring out to see how much public money they can spend.

I may be right, but if I am, it's wonderful.

NOW THIS IS A PRETTY KETTLE OF FISH!

Dear Say: Quite recently, I am informed, a communication was sent to your valued publication purporting to announce the engagement of a girl who chooses to call herself Miss Blondie Boopadoop, to Mr. Dagwood Bumstead, the son of J. Bolling Bumstead, of Bumstead Manor, Bumstead-by-the-sea, N. J.

I am requested by Mr. Bumstead, Sr., one of my oldest and most respected clients, to inform you that said announcement was a pure fabrication of fancy, if not a malicious attempt on the part of this Miss Blondie Boopadoop to injure, embarrass and otherwise annoy my client, whose name you will instantly recognize as that of one of the nation's foremost builders and operators of railroads.

My client's family, which is among the very first in the social lists of New Jersey, is making every effort to transmit a most forcible denial of this reported engagement to all who have received the said spurious announcements. They wish me to state that they have never contemplated nor implied giving their consent to any matrimonial arrangement between their son, Dagwood, and Miss Blondie Boopadoop.

I am sure you will be glad to cooperate in protesting the name and social position of Mr. J. Bolling Bumstead's family, and to this end I ask you to consider any further communications of the kind from Miss Blondie Boopadoop as utterly unauthorized. In case you have printed the announcement, I am sure Mr. and Mrs. Bumstead would appreciate a correction. You are hereby authorized to make said correction as emphatic as you please.

Yours very truly,
Dudley L. Cartwright.

AIRPORT GREAT BOOM FOR OUR CITY

INTEREST IN AVIATION IS GROWING DAILY

OBSERVATION OF B. H. BRUNER, WHILE ON RECENT MOTOR TRIP WEST, INDICATES THAT NATION IS RAPIDLY BECOMING AIR MINDED

If anyone thinks that America is not rapidly becoming air-minded, a little trip across the country in almost any direction, will prove to be an eye-opener. Because of the interest of my young son, and of my own interest in aviation, I made some very interesting observations on my recent little trip to Kansas City, Mo. First of all, we visited Lambert Field in St. Louis to see the endurance flyers. We were fortunate enough to see the refueling plane make contact with the endurance plane. But this endurance flight is of very little importance in comparison with the business of Lambert field and the tremendous interest which is developing in aviation. Here at this field you will find great concrete runways, many great hangars, and a station which compares favorably with most railway stations. We were told that during the month of July more than eighty thousand air passengers either left or passed through St. Louis.

In Kansas City we visited the Municipal Air Port which at present is their largest field. There is at the present time a greater field under construction in Kansas City, Kansas. At this Municipal Air Port we found another fine passenger station. While there one of the large planes from Indianapolis and St. Louis came in. We learned that it had taken this plane just four hours and ten minutes to come from Indianapolis. We also saw some of the large Western Express planes which are now making the daily trips from Kansas City to Los Angeles in thirteen hours. An old lady eighty-two years old got off of the plane from St. Louis. This means that she was born in 1848. At that time Kansas City was old Westport Landing, the starting point of the Wagon trains which were pushing their way westward. All of the progress from the old river landing, and the wagon trains, to a great modern city like Kansas City and the air transportation which crosses the western country in daylight, has come within the life-time of one person.

But it is not only the large cities which are interested in aviation. All across the country, the cities which are near these great air lines, are building landing fields and air ports. Many cities of only two or three thousand population have splendid landing fields, and every city of any size has a good air port either operating or under construction. In almost every one of these cities there are also great signs directing the flying public to the merits of these cities. We were convinced that the progressive cities which expected to be on the map in the next ten years, must become air-minded. The leaders in Greenecastle are to be congratulated upon their action in securing such a fine location for our local air port. We are fortunate that the Government is interested in this port and that much of the expense connected with it will come from the government. Many cities are forced to take care of all of this expense in a local way. My observation is that only in those locations where the government believes that an adequate air port is greatly needed, is this government aid available. In a very few years we are confident that Greenecastle will be on the air map.

While visiting for a week in Lexington, Mo., I was impressed with

FARMER HANGS HIMSELF; BODY IN HOG HOUSE

BODY OF PROMINENT COATESVILLE MAN WHO COMMITTED SUICIDE IS FOUND BY WILLIS JACKSON, FORMER GREENCASTLE MAN

WAS MISSING FROM HOME

Action is Believed Caused By Ill Health And Worry Regarding His Farm Crops—Had Not Been Well

Alarmed because of the absence of her husband for more than two hours, Mrs. William T. Vice, who lives on a farm just south of Coatesville, called Willis Jackson, a neighbor, and asked him to search for him.

Just across the road from the large brick residence of Mr. and Mrs. Vice there stands a hog house. It was here that Mr. Jackson found the body of Mr. Vice hanging from a rafter. He had committed suicide.

Mr. Vice was a prominent farmer and well known in the community. He was about 65 years old. He has not been in good health and it is believed that because of his ill health and worries regarding his farm crops he became despondent, causing him to end his life.

Mr. Jackson, who found the body is a former Greenecastle man, and is well known here. He is a brother of Hawk Jackson, of this city and lives just south of Coatesville, his home adjoining that of Mr. and Mrs. Vice.

Besides the widow, Mr. Vice leaves five children, two daughters and three sons. All are married.

After playing a number of games the children were served watermelon and candy. The little guests then departed receiving as favors little dolls dressed in yellow crepe, the predominating color in the decorations.

Those present were Lorna and Bettie Jean Thomas, Barbara Bain, Margery Hall, Velma Ada, Martina and June O'Hair, Dorothy Wyson, Helen Pace and Dorothy Flint. Martha Ellen Ferrand of Fowler and Maxine and Bettie Ferrand of Terre-Haute.

the tragedy which awaits any city which does not go forward. For years Lexington, which is about forty miles east of Kansas City on the river, was the landing place for the boats. It was a considerable sized city when Kansas City was just Westport Landing. Then the promoters of the rail roads came through that country. They wanted to build a bridge at Lexington and make their western terminal. The business men of Lexington had no faith in the rail roads and they refused to co-operate in any way. A few progressive men in Kansas City, just then getting started, co-operated with the rail roads. A bridge was built there, and Kansas City has become a great city while Lexington goes backward every year. B. H. Bruner.

FORMER LOCAL COLORED MAN IS ARRESTED

IS SAID TO HAVE DISTURBED RESIDENTS OF WEST WASHINGTON STREET—INTOXICATING LIQUOR FOUND IN HIS POSSESSION

Lee Shipman, colored, about 50 years old was arrested Thursday night about 10:30 o'clock by police officer George Knauer after residents of West Washington street had reported that the Negro attempted to enter their homes. The man was put in the Putnam County jail.

When arrested Johnson had in his possession about a half pint of intoxicating liquor and a kit of tools that officials think might have been used as burglar tools.

The man's wrist was badly cut and was bleeding. He told the officers that the injury was a glass cut and it is thought he attempted to enter some house through the window and suffered the wound. However no place has been reported as entered through a window.

Johnson was to have been arraigned before Mayor W. L. Denman in the city court this afternoon on charges of intoxication and possession of liquor.

It is said the man lived in south Greenecastle about 15 years ago, but his appearance last night was the first in the city in several years. His divorced wife, however, resides in the south part of town.

Shipman was arraigned before Mayor W. L. Denman in City court this afternoon on a charge of public intoxication and was fined $10 and costs amounting to $45 and sentenced to the Indiana State Farm at Putnamville when he pleaded guilty.

The man when arrested by Officer Knauer said that his name was Charles Johnson. Later he admitted that he was Shipman. According to Sheriff Edward Eiteljorge the man served a jail sentence here in December of 1927 on a charge of intoxication.

Mrs. Mason Alexander of New-castle and her daughter, Mrs. R. F. Romine of Martinsville are visiting Mrs. Alexander's son Mr. Raymond Alexander of Greenecastle.

WESTERN TOUR CUT SHORT BY DEPUTY SHERIFF

FOUR YOUTHFUL VAGRANTS ARE PICKED UP ALONG NATIONAL ROAD BY OFFICER ALVA BRYAN

ARE PLACED IN JAIL

And Are Later Returned to Their Homes in Indianapolis By The Father of One of The Boys

A tour of the west by three youthful Indianapolis vagabonds was cut short Thursday night when a car driven by deputy sheriff Alva Bryan came to a stop near where they were sleeping along the national road south east of here. The deputy had noticed a youngster about 10 years old asleep in the tall grass and stopped to find out if there was anything wrong.

The young vagabonds who had spent twenty four hours hiking west were Danial Carlisle, 16 years old, Russell Williams, 10 years old and Eugene Purdy, 12 years old. All of the boys are neighbors.

Deputy Sheriff Bryan soon had the story of their escapade from the boy and brought them to Greenecastle where they were put up for the night in the Putnam County jail. While eating the regular county jail supper one of the boys told sheriff Edward Eiteljorge that the meal was the first they had eaten since leaving the capital city.

When called by the Putnam county sheriff, chief of police, Jerry Kenney of Indianapolis stated that he had no reports of the missing youths, but latter he located the Purdy father, who came to Greenecastle about 10:30 o'clock after the vagabonds.

AVATION FIELD TO STAMP CITY AS PROGRESSIVE

MUNICIPALITY FORTUNATE IN SECURING CO-OPERATION OF GOVERNMENT IN CONDITIONING AND MAINTAINING FIELD

OTHERS SOUGHT LANDING FIELD

Only Cost To City Is For Land. While U. S. Pays For Equipment and Conditioning of Land—On New Mail Route

That Greenecastle is most fortunate in securing Government aid in the establishing of an airport, is easily understood, when it is known that the city is securing one of the most modern and complete landing fields—a feature that all progressive towns are now seeking—at a minimum cost.

It is because Greenecastle is situated on the direct U. S. Government airline—the east to west mail plane lane—that the city was able to secure the co-operation of the government in building and equipping the field.

Necessarily the Government must provide emergency landing fields for its mail planes, and Greenecastle happened to be properly located for one of these fields. The only requirement of the Government was that Greenecastle provide the land and this was secured at a cost of approximately $6,000. But of the 200 acres purchased the airport will occupy only 50 acres, leaving the other 150 acres to be used for park purposes or any other purpose the city may desire. Or, it can be held until real estate values increase and then sold for agricultural purposes.

While the city is called upon to provide only the land, the Government provided engineers familiar with the laying out of aviation fields, which assures a properly formed field. Then it conditions the field: builds signal towers and a field lighting system, at a cost which will far exceed the cost of the land to the city. And when the field is completed it will be one of the most complete and best in the state.

Other cities, including Brazil and Crawfordville, made effort to secure the field but Greenecastle, especially fortunate, was able to secure it.

The Chamber of Commerce committee which is in charge of the promotion of the field is to be congratulated in securing the airport and the citizens should show their appreciation by giving the project their whole hearted support.

While the airport will be under the supervision of the Government, which will provide a care taker for the field, for the present, the city may, at any time, take over the field as a municipal project. This will require that the city maintain it and provide a care taker, however.

As it is Greenecastle will have a modern airport, maintained by the Government, at a minimum expense. Most any town in the country would welcome an opportunity to secure one under similar circumstances.

Dean J. H. Skinner Says State Fair Is Great Educational Institution

The Indiana State Fair, August 30 to September 6 will have something of interest to every citizen of the state, says Dean J. H. Skinner of Purdue University, ex-officio member of Indiana Board of Agriculture.

The State Fair is a great educational institution and the show window for the agriculture and industries of the Middle West—in fact, the Indiana State Fair is the great Midwest exposition in which all kinds of manufactured products, crops, live stock, poultry, farm products and even boys and girls are shown to the public in a most attractive and instructive way. No other fair has better equipment, premiums and attendance.

The Indiana Board of Agriculture has stressed educational features in all departments in a very large way. It has provided for a school for girls and a club camp for boys. It also provides a most excellent and wholesome race program and other entertainment for the visitors. No matter what the weather the Indiana State Fair is now prepared to carry on an excellent program with assurance that the public will be well cared for under any circumstances.

Every Indiana citizen, whether living on the farm or in the city, should be benefited by attending the Indiana State Fair one or more days.

Cottons—Smart for Many Moods

PERHAPS you have noticed some of the lovely new fabrics that have made their appearance this summer and wondered what they were. The chances are that many of them are cottons—new or old—which have come ahead so swiftly in the fashion parade this year. There seems to be a never-ending variety of treatment which is accorded to this most useful and versatile fabric. Whatever the requirement may be, whether for something of lightest weight and sheerest appearance, or thick and durable, the chances are that cotton will solve the most perplexing question in one's wardrobe. At the left is one of the fashion "hits" of the season, a smart beach ensemble of yellow terry cloth—or toweling—that has been worn by the fashionables at smart watering places this year and is bound to be seen more and more during the rest of this season and next year. This ensemble, consisting of robe, bag and blanket, is extremely smart and practical for anyone who goes in seriously for beach pastimes. The absorbent qualities of terry cloth—or toweling—are admirable for furnishing comfort in this most useful outfit at the beach or an inland lake resort. At the right is one of the new tea frocks of embroidered voile which reflects the Empire influence in styling and design. The raised waistline emphasizes the soft draping quality of the fabric itself.

Bohumir Kryl World Famous Cornetist

Bohumir Kryl, who is to appear here with his band from August 30 to September 5 at the Indiana State Fair, is known everywhere throughout the United States as conductor of one of the finest and best known bands in this country, has had a most unusual and interesting career. His artistic talents first found expression in the field of sculpture. It was while engaged in the modeling of a statue of Gen. Lew Wallace, at Crawfordsville, Ind., that he met John Philip Sousa. He was persuaded by Sousa to go in for a musical career, and today his fame as a cornetist and band leader is world wide. During the war Kryl had charge of the training of the bands in the various military camps of this country.

Kryl and his band have played in all of the larger cities of the United States, and the comment of a few of the newspapers are given below:

The Chicago Tribune: "As a director he is without a peer, as a virtuoso he is unrivaled."

Advertisements are a guide to value

EXPERTS can roughly estimate the value of a product by looking at it. More accurately, by handling and examining it. Its appearance, its texture, the "feel" and the balance of it all mean something to their trained eyes and fingers.

But no one person can be an expert on steel, brass, wood, leather, foodstuffs, fabrics, and all of the materials that make up a list of personal purchases. And even experts are fooled, sometimes, by concealed flaws and imperfections.

There is a surer index of value than the senses of sight and touch—knowledge of the maker's name and for what it stands. Here is the most certain method, except that of actual use, for judging the value of any manufactured goods. Here is the only guarantee against careless workmanship, or the use of shoddy materials.

This is one important reason why it pays to read advertisements and to buy advertised goods. The product that is advertised is worthy of your confidence.

Merchandise must be good or it could not be advertised. Buy advertised goods.
